

DURHAM COUNTY

At A Glance

Durham County is consistently ranked as one of the top places in the nation to live and do business.

With a growing population, thriving business community, and increasing popularity as a creative and unique destination, DCo (pronounced dee-co) is an up and coming county in the country. Our natural resources, rich history and close proximity to mountains and the coast, make our county a desirable place to call home. DCo provides a range of services to all those who live here.

History

As early as colonial days, the area known as Durham County was important to North Carolina history. The English, Scottish and Irish settled along the waterways of the present Northeast corner of the county on land given to the Earl of Granville by the British Crown. As a result of the settlers' hard work, the area became a prosperous section of the state. The City of Durham, named for Dr. Bartlett Durham, began as a railroad station and settlement. While Durham's official birth date is April 26, 1853 (the date that the U.S. Post Office was established), the town was not incorporated by the General Assembly until April 10, 1869. The tobacco manufacturing industry focused worldwide attention on the area after the Civil War. As a result, Durham County grew and prospered tremendously. In 1881, Durham officials sought to become an autonomous political subdivision and separated from Orange County. Durham County was formed on April 17, 1881 from land transferred from neighboring Wake and Orange counties. In 1911, an additional portion of land was added from Wake County. The first Durham County Board of Commissioners convened its initial meeting May 2, 1881. Durham County operated under the commission form of government with the chairman serving as chief administrator until 1930, when it adopted the county manager form of government. Since that time, there have been nine county managers.

Board of Commissioners

A five-member Board of Commissioners governs Durham County. Members are elected at-large, on a partisan basis by a countywide vote. Commissioners serve four-year terms and elections are held in November of presidential election years. The Board takes office at its first meeting in December following the November election, and elects a chairman and vice chairman. The primary duties of the board include formulating policy, adopting an annual budget, establishing the annual property tax rate, appointing various officials, planning for county needs and enacting local ordinances. The Board has the authority to call bond referendums, authorize the county manager to enter into contracts and establish new programs and departments. Work sessions occur on the first Monday of each month at 9 am, and the Board convenes its regular session at 7 pm on the second and fourth Mondays of each month. All meetings are open to the public and conducted virtually or in the Commissioners' Chambers, located in the Durham County Administration Building I, 200 E. Main Street, Durham. Meetings are broadcast live on local cable channel 8, and can be viewed on the County's website at dconc.gov.

Administration

Claudia O. Hager, County Manager

The County Manager is hired by the county commissioners to serve as the chief administrative officer of county government. She supervises and coordinates the daily activities of departments for the Board by seeing that all orders, policies and federal or state mandates are carried out. The county manager also recommends an annual budget, makes recommendations on appropriate matters of business, and represents the county in dealing with other agencies. Manager Hager is the ninth manager for Durham County Government.

Durham Public Schools

Durham Public Schools prepare Durham's children to become our future leaders by training them to be innovators for success in a global economy. Each day, educators at DPS ignite the limitless potential of more than 31,000 pre-kindergarten through twelfth grade students.

The district comprises 57 schools that include year-round and traditional calendar schools, career and technical education, and early college programs. Specialized programs include Montessori, international baccalaureate, and dual-language immersion, focused on helping students to become independent and critical thinkers, as well as global leaders. Programs are also available for career and technical education, online learning, and both STEM and arts-focused instruction.

DPS partners with higher education, community agencies, and the business community to deliver an exceptional education with hands-on learning opportunities for all students. One in six teachers are National Board Certified, and an overwhelming majority of schools are meeting or exceeding their growth goals each year. The district and its educators have won numerous accolades, including the prestigious Milken Educator Award, Blue Ribbon Lighthouse School of Excellence, National Magnet Schools of Excellence and Distinction, Project Lead the Way School, and Capturing Kids Heart School, among others. An independently elected seven-member Board of Education governs the school district.

Hospitals and Healthcare

Duke University Hospital is internationally known for its significant contributions to the study of cancer, heart disease and organ transplantation.
